Game 67 | Home Game 37

Right off the bat! The River Cats collected a franchise-record eight home runs Wednesday night at Fresno. Eric Patterson stepped up to the plate to lead off the game with a home run to right field on a 2-2 pitch from the left-hander Steve Hammond. It seemed to be an early highlight that would not amount to much, as the Grizzlies scored three quick runs in the third inning to take the lead. However, the River Cats' long-ball exposition had just begun. Sacramento blasted three home runs in the fourth inning. Aaron Cunningham hit his first of two on the night with Travis Buck on first to tie the game. Two batters and one out later, Tommy Everidge would blast one out of Chukchansi Field and Anthony Recker would step up and hit another home run three pitches later. The River Cats had the lead, but were still hungry and had more home runs up their sleeve. After holding the Grizzlies scoreless in the fourth, the Cats would go on the offensive again. Matt Carson hit a two-run shot over the right-center field wall with Patterson on first base. While that was the only home run in the fifth inning, they would score seven runs (a season high) in the frame. In the sixth inning, Cunningham hit a second and identical two-run home run with Travis Buck on first base. Three batters and two outs later, Cliff Pennington hits his first home run of the season on new pitcher Osiris Matos' fifth pitch. Finally, in the seventh inning, second baseman Eric Patterson hit his second lead-off homer of the night over the right field wall on a 1-2 pitch. This brought the total to eight home runs for the night, accounting for 12 of their 19 runs. The eight homers in a game is a team record and two shy of the all-time Pacific Coast League record of 10, set by Phoenix Giants against the Sacramento Solons on June 22, 1974. The River Cats are now 22-12 in games when they hit home runs, and undefeated when they hit eight home runs.

In non-HR news ... : The River Cats managed to hit an unbelievable eight home runs last night in Fresno, but did not rely on those power shots to win the game. The Cats scored another seven runs to bring their final tally to 19 runs. The team went 21 for 45 during the game and was only struck out five times. Every player who stepped up to the plate recorded a hit and only one player (Jeff Baisley) did not score for his club. While the offense won this game, it is not to overshadow the River Cats' stellar defense that has been on display all season long. The River Cats have committed a Pacific Coast League-low 41 errors on the season and have a PCL-best .984 fielding percentage. Those numbers are also better than any Triple-A team in the International League.

Best of the best: Sacramento has the best overall record in the PCL at 41-25, and leads the league in home victories with 23. The River Cats sit 16 games above .500 and are five games up on Fresno in the Pacific South division. Sacramento also leads the Pacific Coast League in the highest attendance, averaging 8,912 fans per game with a grand total of 320,849. Fresno sits in second place in the PCL Pacific South Division, holding a 36-30 record on the season. Reno is 10.5 games out and Las Vegas trails Sacramento by 14.5 games.

Powerhouse June: The River Cats are currently 15 games into a 23-game stretch against teams with records better than .500. The stretch started with a four-game trip to Salt Lake (currently 38-29), in which the River Cats earned a four-game split. Sacramento then returned home for an eight-game homestand against Colorado Springs (37-29) and Tacoma (34-32), during which the River Cats won five of the eight games, including taking three of four from Tacoma. Sacramento then took off for Fresno (36-30), where they took two of three games from the Grizzlies earlier this week. The River Cats are now 9-6 during the 23-game stretch, and hold a five-game lead over Fresno. It doesn't get any easier for the River Cats, as the team hosts Salt Lake and Colorado Springs over the next eight games.

Mazzaro watch: River Cats' ace Vince Mazzaro makes his fourth appearance on the mound for the Oakland A's tonight against the Los Angeles Dodgers. Mazzaro has received a decision in all three starts for the A's and boasts a 2-1 record with a 1.37 ERA. Mazzaro will face off against Randy Wolf tonight at 7:10 p.m. and will look to take the lead in the series that is tied at 1-1. Before leaving for Oakland, Mazzaro had earned back-to-back Pacific Coast League Pitcher of the Week honors with the River Cats.
